1. Place one of the net pole sets on the ground, allowing a fair amount of space for you to build the net frame. Once done, begin to take the poles out of the coupler and place them into the four-point frame base found on the bottom of the net pole set (as seen in the image on the top left). Make sure the coupler is on the ground once you have finished building the bottom of the net frame (as seen in the image on the top right).

2. Continue to slide the poles into the section that is facing up until you no longer have the poles to do so. After this, pull the sleeve on the side of the sports net down onto the upper section of the created net frame.

3. Once done, pull the hook and cord found on the top pole through the hole seen in the pictures on the above right, making sure that the hook is attached to the cord so that the sports net stays up.
